

National Opinion Survey of 10,000,000 Americans

Concerning the War on America's Police

QUESTION #1:

Do you think most police officers behave recklessly, perhaps even maliciously, as many in the media and elsewhere claim? Or do you think our police are an overall force for good, and are just trying to do a dangerous job often under very difficult circumstances?

5% I think most police behave recklessly and even maliciously when on the job.

90% I think our police are an overall force for good and are just trying to do a dangerous job often under very difficult circumstances.

5% Don't know/Undecided

QUESTION #2:

Would you like to see more police patrolling your community? Or fewer police?

89% I would like to see MORE POLICE patrolling my community.

0% Fewer Police 7% About the Same 4% No Opinion

ISSUE SUMMARY: Our most recent reports show murder and other violent crime rates have skyrocketed recently in America's major cities. According to a study by the Major Cities Chiefs Association, 307 more murders had occurred by mid-year 2016 than in 2015 from our biggest law enforcement agencies, with Chicago alone reporting 316 homicides. Big cities experienced more than 1,000 more robberies, almost 2,000 more aggravated assaults and more than 600 non-fatal shootings

QUESTION #3:

Do you think the anti-police rhetoric we're hearing from the news media and others is doing more harm or more good in the high-crime neighborhoods of America's urban areas?

11% More Good 80% More Harm 1% No Impact 3% Not Sure

5% Other

ISSUE SUMMARY: In a typical year, more than 100 police officers perish in the line of duty, many by gunfire. On average there are more than 50,000 assaults against police officers every year. More than 20,000 American police officers have died in the line of duty since records have been kept.

QUESTION #4:

Do you think most Americans UNDERESTIMATE or OVERESTIMATE how dangerous it is to be a police officer patrolling America's streets?

92% I think most Americans UNDERESTIMATE how dangerous it is to be a police officer on patrol.

0% I think most Americans OVERESTIMATE how dangerous it is to be a police officer on patrol.

2% Not Sure 6% Other

ISSUE SUMMARY: Police officers in many smaller and rural jurisdictions are often required to buy their own armor body vests – sometimes called bulletproof vests (incorrectly, because no vest is really bulletproof). Body armor vests can cost over $1,000 a piece – depending on the quality. And because many police officers are struggling to pay the bills and support their families, they choose not to wear one or purchase the cheaper vests to save money.

This is very dangerous for the officer. But many feel they have no choice, because they want to put their families first.

QUESTION #5: What's your reaction to the fact that many police officers must purchase their own body armor vests using their own money? (Mark as many answers as you think appropriate)

85% Outrage 4% Dismay 10% Surprise

0% I believe police officers should be required to buy their own armor vests

1% No Opinion

QUESTION #6: What is your reaction to the fact that in many smaller and rural jurisdictions police officers must purchase (using their own money) all their equipment, including their gun and ammunition? (Mark as many answers as you think appropriate)

85% Outrage 4% Dismay 10% Surprise

0% I believe police officers should be required to buy all their own equipment, including their gun and ammunition.

1% No Opinion

QUESTION #7: Do you think our government should be supplying police officers the equipment they need – including quality body armor vests – so they can do their job effectively and with maximum safety?

99% Yes 0% No 1% Not Sure

PROGRAM SUMMARY: There are more than 900,000 police officers patrolling America's streets. And many of them must buy their own body armor. Depending on the year, approximately 35 percent of police officers killed by gunfire are not wearing body armor.

So we at the U.S. Deputy Sheriffs' Association raise funds to supply high-quality body armor vests to America's police officers. . . By providing them with these high quality vests FREE OF CHARGE we can protect more officers from bullets and keep them alive.

QUESTION #8: How strongly do you support or oppose the special 2017 PROJECT TO PROVIDE POLICE OFFICERS WITH BODY ARMOR VESTS that active duty officer David Hinners described to you in his letter?

97% Strongly Support 2% Support 0% Oppose

0% Strongly Oppose 1% Not Sure
