

This was one of the better trainings I have attended in years. For those of us that have been in the job for many years (15 for me) this class was not only a nice refresher but a reminder of some of the issues we face in this line of work. Also, one thing I really appreciated was it was not a death by power point but interactive with the class and the addition of the training drills with the sim weapons. The instructors were not dry and dull and kept the attention of the entire class. Even after coming off a night shift with little sleep, I was eager to hear what they were talking about. When I returned to work that night, I recommended the class to all my 2nd and 3rd shift officers.

I would actually like to be kept informed with any future trainings that the USDSA puts on if that's possible.

Thank you,
